Who are health visitors and what do they do?

They are a vital infrastructure, working in partnership with families, communities and professionals infant - /'ɪnf(ə)nt/from Latin infant - 'unable to speak'

Health visitors speak up for babies and their families

Who are health visitors?

Registered nurses or midwives

 Have additional registered specialist training in public health

Part of the 'health' workforce Work with all families from pregnancy to starting school
"Eyes and ears" of the community

Innovative workforce embracing digital technology

What do health visitors do?

Give every baby the best start in life

Support thousands of families every week

Provide extra support when families need it the most

Build on families' strengths

Prevent costly problems or spot them early

Connect families to the right support and find solutions together

Building a fairer society

Health creation is at the heart of health visiting

"As we recover from the pandemic, we have huge opportunities and challenges ahead... I am convinced that health visitors will play a key role in addressing the crucial issues amongst the families they work with."

Dr Camilla Kingdon, President of the Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health

Physical Health

Child physical health

- Promoting health and wellbeing

 Coping with a premature or sick
- Coping with a premature or sick baby
- Infant feeding difficulties
- Faltering growth
- Identifying and managing common childhood illnesses
- Immunisations
- Newborn screening and genomics
- Childhood obesity
- Promoting oral health
- Complex health conditions and disabilities such as liver disease and neuro developmental disorders
- Foetal alcohol spectrum disorders

Adult physical health

- Common and serious problems in the postnatal period
- Pregnancy planning and sexual health advice
- Promoting physical activity, healthy weight and lifestyles smokefree families

Social needs & safeguarding

- Building community connections
- Reducing accidents
- Supporting vulnerable families
- Domestic abuseSubstance misuse

Child development

- Sleep
- Speech, language and communication
- School readiness
- Behaviour
- Promoting child development

Mental Health

- Promoting good mental health and wellbeing of the whole family
- Identifying 'red flags' and risk of suicide
- Assessment of mental health
- Delivering evidencebased interventions
 Supporting healthy parent-infant and couple
- relationships

